FAIRBANKS

SCALES

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1870.

Section 14 of the Schedule, reads:

"The number of Representatives in each district shall be determined by dividing the whole number of legal voters in the State, as ascertained by the returns of the last preceding election, by the number of Representatives to which the State may be entitled under the apportionment then next to be made, and the quotient shall be the ratio of representation in each district."

This is all the law on the subject. The Governor, if he will look at the Constitution, will find that it is his duty, and his only duty, to issue writs for members, to such district, as the Legislature may determine. He will find, also, that it is not for him to say whether the Legislature has done its duty or not. He will find that the Legislature, after receiving the opinion of the Attorney-General, was required to call the number of Representatives to which each district was entitled. Is Cook to do otherwise? Section 7 sets forth the rule by which the Legislature should determine apportion the State. It provides for the number of Representatives to which each district is entitled, by dividing the whole number of legal voters in the State by the number of Representatives to which the State is entitled. It does not give to each county, or district, a representative for each 25,000 inhabitants, but of the ratio. Under this ratio, the number of district might have as many Representatives as the whole number entitled it. Suppose the ratio to be 25,000. Each district had over 300,000 inhabitants, or thirteen times the number of the ratio, it would be entitled to thirteen members. Suppose that each county or district would be entitled to one member, being just one-half of the representation to which it was entitled under the ratio, it would be in direct violation of the provision that each county, or district, having a population more than the ratio and fraction, should have one Representative for each additional number of population equal to a ratio.

But it is said the Schedule specifies the seventh section, as for as Cook County is concerned. That Schedule requires the Governor to apportion the Representatives "strictly in accordance with the rule and principles" of the fourth article, the only article which looks to the public Treasury and the public money for compensation. There is no mention of the number of members to be elected in the County Commissioners' districts, or matters.

By the ballot-system, the Governor is to issue certificates of election to Clerks of Circuit Courts, and to Justices of the Peace, for wagons. The reason why the Governor is required to issue writs with agricultural departments, is that the number of those districts is not fixed by law, but may be changed from time to time. The Governor is not to issue writs for members of the Legislature, but for members of Congress. The reason why he is required to issue writs for members of Congress is that the number of districts is not fixed by law, but may be changed from time to time. The Governor is not to issue writs for members of the Legislature, but for members of Congress. The reason why he is required to issue writs for members of Congress is that the number of districts is not fixed by law, but may be changed from time to time.

The Governor has no discretion. He is required to issue writs for members of Congress, and for members of the Legislature, and for members of the Constitutional Convention, and for members of the Board of Equalization, and for members of the Board of Review, and for members of the Board of Trade, and for members of the Board of Education, and for members of the Board of Health, and for members of the Board of Police, and for members of the Board of Fire Commissioners, and for members of the Board of Water Commissioners, and for members of the Board of Sewerage Commissioners, and for members of the Board of Park Commissioners, and for members of the Board of Public Works, and for members of the Board of Public Buildings, and for members of the Board of Public Improvements, and for members of the Board of Public Parks, and for members of the Board of Public Libraries, and for members of the Board of Public Museums, and for members of the Board of Public Art Galleries, and for members of the Board of Public Theaters, and for members of the Board of Public Concert Halls, and for members of the Board of Public Opera Houses, and for members of the Board of Public Dramatic Associations, and for members of the Board of Public Literary Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Scientific Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Historical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Antiquarian Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Genealogical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Heraldic Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Numismatic Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Philatelic Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Philosophical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Psychological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Sociological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Anthropological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Ethnological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Archæological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Paleontological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Geological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Mineralogical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Zoological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Botanical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Horticultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Agricultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Pomological Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Floricultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Arboricultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Viticultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Apicultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Sericultural Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Lacustrine Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Marine Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Nautical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Aeronautical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Astronautical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Cosmonautical Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Interplanetary Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Interstellar Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Intergalactic Societies, and for members of the Board of Public Universal Societies.
